Sunday is the anniversary of Lincoln's birth. Lincoln — he split rails . . . while congressmen split hairs . . . and the Russians split heads.

Naval Court of Inquiry says it has doubts about the competency of the assistant navigator of the battleship Missouri, 23-year-old Ensign E. R. Harris of Norfolk, Va., who, the poor ensign — he had a career but got stuck with it.

"Internationalist" is a word that still means geography rather than the high-toned "culture" that the Communists pass it off for. Example: Dr. Klaus Fuchs — born in Germany, given a government job in the United States, promoted by the British . . . yet told everything he knew to the Russians.

Paragraph — an intellectual dog who every time he digs up a bone wonders if it hasn't been chewed on before.

It's been a rough winter for Mr. Truman. They are saying, since he decided to invoke the Taft-Hartley law against the miners, that politics makes strange bedfellows. . . . Taft and Hartley and Truman. But John L. Lewis kept the president up night after night and sooner or later even a president has got to go to bed.

Victory Club Raises $170 for Polio

The Victory home demonstration club has only 14 active members but the pie supper it put on Thursday night for the benefit of the March of Dimes polio fund raised a total of $170.65.

The supper, held at Hickory Shade church, was featured by the auctioneering of Hobart Shirley, an amateur who performed like a professional, making pies come high.

President of the Victory club Mrs. William Schooley.

Jerry May Said to Be Improving

Jerry May, 11-year-old Bodew leukemia victim, is responding well to special treatment in Children's Hospital, Boston, Mass., and a definite improvement has been reported by attending doctors, family friends at Bodew said here today.

Inf fact he is responding so well that his family may bring him home in the near future. However, he will still have to undergo special treatments every other day by his home physician Dr. A. A. Little of Texarkana.

When it was discovered Jerry had leukemia residents of this section chipped in over $1,200 to help bear expenses for the special treatments in Boston.

Here and There in Arkansas

Washington, Feb. 11 — (P) — An increase of 4,375,000 in the soil conservation service appropriation is sought by Rep. Mills (D-Ark.).

Mills told a house appropriations subcommittee yesterday that benefits of local soil-keeping programs reach "effectively into every segment of our life."

Experience has shown this committee that the work soil conservation districts are doing is worth far more than the money congress has invested," he said.

Little Rock, Feb. 11 — (P) — The Arkansas Farm Bureau Federation's new insurance company may change 20 per cent less than usual rates for its fire policies.

Authority to do so was granted yesterday by State Insurance Commissioner Herbert Graves after he was told the company's fees are below those allowed under the agency system.

Little Rock, Feb. 11 — (P) — Officers raided several homes and business establishments in Columbia (Magnolia) and county yesterday, arresting nine men on liquor.

The state revenue department said "very little" liquor was confiscated, however.

The men arrested were identified by the department as: Rosston Kendrick, Coy Manley and A. C. Jamerson, all Negroes; George Marsh, Melvin Smith, Webster Smith, G. W. McNatt, A. J. Marsh and John D. Miller. All live near Magnolia.

Little Rock, Feb. 11 — (P) — Radioactive materials for treatment of some cancer patients will be provided by the Arkansas Cancer commission. The commission voted to buy the materials yesterday. The materials will be used at University hospital here.

Indonesia Gets U. S. Funds and Indo China Next

Washington, Feb. 11 — (P) — With Indonesia set for a new $100,000,000 U. S. credit, Indochina was chalked up today as the next Communist-threatened Asiatic region in line for American dollar help.

Diplomatic authorities look for the new Vietnam regime headed by former emperor Bao Da to be dealt a share soon or the $75,000,000 Far Eastern arms fund which President Truman has at his disposal.

Vietnam and the two smaller French-sponsored states of Cambodia and Laos in Indochina also are eligible for United States government loans such as the big credit which the Export-Import bank yesterday authorized for Indonesia.

Herbert Gaston, bank chairman, said Vietnam's needs will certainly be investigated when an inquiry is made.

Such a loan, which may be used only for economic purposes, might require months to negotiate. Meanwhile Indochina is under direct pressure both from the advancing Chinese Communists on its northern frontier and by the internal rebellion of Ho Chi-Minh, Moscow-trained revolutionary.

The $75,000,000 fund which congress voted last year may be used immediately by Mr. Truman to support anti-communist forces anywhere in the general area of China," without a formal accounting.

Indonesia as well as Indochina is reported in line for several millions from the Far Eastern arms fund.

The government loan to Indonesia was the largest made to any country by the bank since last year's loan of the same size to Israel.

The Indonesian funds are earmarked largely for motor trucks, railroad rolling stock, structural steel, road machinery and other materials needed to get the former Dutch East Indies back into full production as a major supplier of many raw materials.

The loan was negotiated by the Indonesian economics minister, Dr. D. Djundana, who was due to start back to Batavia this week-end.

Indochina in prewar days was one of the world's principal rice-producing areas. American and French policy is to try to restore stability and get the country back into full production, as well as to keep it out of Communist control.

Britons Let Hair Down in Elections

London, Feb. 11 — (P) — Traditionally undemonstrative Britons are letting themselves go in a restrained sort of way in their general election campaign.

Political rallies before the Feb. 23 balloting are drawing out the dry British humor, a product peculiar to these rain-soaked, fog-bound isles.

It is being aired also in the columns of the daily press.

Some of it is directed by the Conservatives at the "gobbled-gook" or official language.

Cigar-smoking Winston Churchill, the master phrasemaker, started the ball rolling in that direction of Cardiff. He burst into a hoarse ditty based on the government's reference to houses as "accommodation units."

Home sweet home," said Churchill, now was "accommodation unit," accommodation unit."

And there's no place like our accommodation unit," the Tory leader concluded with an expansive smile.

The Conservative "Daily Mail" took up the refrain. Columnist Cecil Wilson printed his version of "Home, Sweet Home," as it would be printed today in official language. Samples go like this:

Original: "Home! Home! Sweet, Sweet Home!"

Wilson's: "It has not come to our notice in the course of exhaustive inquiries, made through the appropriate channels, that there is any unit to come within the same residential category as an accommodation unit!"

Original: "There's no place like home!"

Wilson's: "We can now state with due regard to the claims of others concerned in the well being of the community that there is no other communal center corresponding to the accommodation unit!"

Goaded by hecklers in their audiences, Britain's politicians often have forgotten to be cautiously ponderous.

"Now shut up for awhile," cracked the Labor party's health minister Aneurin Bevan recently to a woman heckler. He added: "Priest once said that the three worst things in life are a false friend, meat cooked twice and a cackling woman."

Government Agencies Use 1,100 Planes

By JAMES J. STREBIG
AP Aviation Reporter
(For James Marlow)

Washington, Feb. 11 — (P) — You read a lot about the B-36 and other fighting planes, but do you know about Uncle Sam's peaceful air force?

It is 1,100 planes strong and serves a dozen or more government agencies. The planes range from little two-seat ships to giant transport. Their armament may be spray guns, cameras, fire extinguishers, first aid packs, food bundles, stretchers for sick and injured or dropable life boats.

The biggest job they do is simply transportation. They serve the special needs of agencies where airline service is not practical.

The government's non-military air fleet is scattered among the atomic energy commission, the departments of agriculture, commerce, defense, interior, justice, state and treasury, and such independent agencies as the federal security agency, civil aeronautics board and Tennessee valley authority.

The AEC uses five airplanes for travel, patrol of restricted areas and to fight mosquitoes. The TVA uses eight planes for photography, aerial mapping, control of malaria breeding spots and power line inspection.

The public health service, under the FSA, has four planes for epidemic control work, such as aerial distribution of insecticides. The CBA uses planes to rush accident investigators to crash scenes, for travel. One of its planes is owned cedures and air navigation equipment.

The agriculture department has more than 40 airplanes for its studies of control of crop and forest diseases, for flying "smoke jumpers" to fight fires in remote woodland areas and for patrol of forests.

The interior department uses about 40 aircraft, mostly in enforcing fish and game laws, for fishery research and wild animal surveys. However, it also uses planes to inspect power lines, to survey areas for new lines, and for geophysical exploration and travel. One of its planes is owned by the Alaska railroad, a department agency.

An important mercy job is done by air through the coast guard, which has 50 planes and expects to double the number. A third of its fleet is helicopters. All are available for rescuing accident survivors, helping people in remote areas in need of supplies or hospitalization and chasing smugglers.

The justice department uses its planes to patrol the nation's borders against illegal entry, and ferry immigration inspectors to emergency jobs.

Some of the outstanding advances in aviation technique are tested in flight by planes based at the three great laboratories of the national advisory committee for aeronautics.

The department of state, with its global interests, has two air-planes — one assigned to the civil air attaché in London, the other to the air attaché in Rio De Janeiro.

However, the state department makes considerable use of big transports operated by the military air transport service to carry its own high officials and top ranking guests from other nations.

Mrs. the largest element in the unarmored air force, with some 700 planes, performs a transport service for all branches of the government. Another military branch with civil type planes is the army engineer corps, which uses small craft for inspection work.

It is estimated by the Tea Bureau, Inc. that four-fifths of all tea consumed in the U. S. is drunk in the home.

HELICOPTER AIDS STRANDED FLOOD VICTIMS — A Coast Guard helicopter based at Wynne, Arkansas, was called on to fly a Red Cross nurse to a woman stricken with pneumonia in Monterey, Arkansas, a logging community completely cut off from the outside world by the flood waters of the St. Francis River. At left is an airview of the tiny settlement, with an "X" marking the spot where the helicopter landed. It was the only landing space possible and barely 15 yards wide. At right Mrs. Jane Crane, Red Cross nurse, reaches the bedside of Mrs. Esther Taylor and starts treatments. Arrow in the photo at left is house which housed the sick woman. (NEA Telephoto)

Talk Eventually Becomes So Common That a Small, Simple Diversion Can Be Dangerous

By HAL BOYLE

New York, — (P) — Once upon a time there was a dog named Rover.

And he felt he had a bone to pick with life. He was the loneliest dog anywhere.

The reason was simple. In a world of talking dogs Rover was a misfit. He couldn't say a word.

All his canine friends belonged to radio comedians, who have a monopoly on talking dogs. What life they led! All they had to do was toss off a few gags to their bosses, and take the rest of the day off.

The comedians would then go on the air, and quote what the dogs said, and everybody would just be laughing. It didn't have to be particularly clever, because for some reason or other practically anything a talking dog says sounds funny.

"Why don't you wise up, Rover?" the other dogs told him. There's no future in being the strong silent type."

Well, Rover tried. The only job he could get was night watchdog in a peppermint factory, so he had plenty of free time. Night after night he would squat in front of his mirror in the factory and practice his howls and howls.

But all he ever said was: "Urrroooph. . . urrrroooh. . . urrrroooph."

Finally Rover went to a psychiatrist. He took a pencil in his paws and wrote (yes, wrote) a letter. It wasn't illiterate, the following:

"I don't hate my father or mother. I just want to work for a comedian and live a rich, full life. But I can't talk."

"Hmhm," said the psychiatrist. "How odd. The patient before you was a comedian who wanted me to help him think up a new comedy routine."

Calls for Halt to Foreign Spending

Washington, Feb. 11 — (P) — Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the senate finance committee today called for a halt in "discriminate foreign spending" which he said is driving this nation toward bankruptcy.

The veteran lawmaker, also a member of the senate foreign relations committee, told a reporter this country must cut down on its overseas aid ventures.

"We must pull back in our aid abroad," he said, and strengthen the military defenses and economy at home.

George said the Russians' cold war policies are designed to weaken the American economy.

"Our own economy is the key-stone of the opposition to communism," George said, "and if that is lost — then everything is lost."

George's statement indicated a readiness to the President's point of view. He said the program to give technical and economic aid to underdeveloped areas of the world. The program may be approved by the house foreign affairs committee next week.

"I think we should give our help only in those areas where there is a reasonable chance of success," George said. "I don't think it should go into countries where the Communists may move in and reap the benefits."

The Georgian did not specify where he believed the aid could be given safely and effectively. "This will require careful study and cautious decisions by the state department in selecting these areas," he said.

Apparently George did not classify aid to Korea and Formosa as "discriminate" help for these non-communist areas. He offered no opposition yesterday when the Korea-Formosa aid bill cleared the senate with only seven minutes of debate.

This measure, already approved by the house, authorizes $60,000,000 for the republic of Korea with the reconstruction finance corporation to advance $30,000,000 to get the program rolling.

The Korean national assembly called congress yesterday that "we, together with our entire people, sincerely pledge to reciprocate this great help by doubling our efforts in our economic rehabilitation and our united fight against communism."

Servicemen Only Visitors to Holy City

Rome, Feb. 11 — (P) — The great number of Rome's holy year pilgrims so far have come wearing khaki and blue.

Between 1,500 and 2,000 American soldiers and sailors on furlough from European occupation areas, and ports have visited the Eternal city since the Vatican opened its year of pilgrimages on Christmas eve. Almost all of them have had audiences with the pope whether they were Catholics or not.

The main flow of organized American church pilgrimages, however, is expected to begin March 1. New York's Cardinal Spellman then will lead one of the first large groups, an estimated 800 Catholics.

To date civilian American church pilgrims have arrived in groups of only ten to 20.

About 260 American sailors from the U.S. Mediterranean fleet, on shore leave from Naples, are expected in Rome today. Another 260 bluejackets will arrive tomorrow.

Fourth-four U.S. airmen from the big Tripoli base in North Africa will follow them Monday.

Canadian scientists have developed a flameless match producing heat but no light, says the National Geographic society.

Youth Held for Fatally Shooting His Playmate

Baltimore, Feb. 11 — (P) — Fourteen-year-old Walt Burman was being held without bail today for grand jury action on a charge of fatally shooting Wilbur Biddle, a 16-year-old playmate.

A third playmate, who was with the two other lads in the accused boy's basement, said Biddle and Burman charged him with stealing up with a rope.

Then said the witness, 14-year-old Linwood Holloway, this is what happened:

When Biddle was tied to a chair Burman charged him with stealing his father's cigarettes.

Burman took a .22 rifle from a closet and fired a shot over Biddle's head.

Biddle laughed and dared Burman to shoot again.

He did. He fired two shots, the second one striking Biddle in the chest.

Police said the young defendant has confessed to the shooting.

State Dept. Full of Reds Says Senator

Salt Lake City, Feb. 11 — (P) — Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) hopped across the nation by air yesterday, leaving a trail of accusations that the state department is employing communists, many of whom hold influential positions.

He declined to reveal any names to newsmen, but said under certain conditions he would give Secretary of State Acheson the names of "57 card-carrying Communists" in the state department.

In Washington the Senator's charges brought from state department press officer Lincoln White the assertion that "we know of no Communist member in the department and if we find any they will be summarily discharged."

McCarthy continued his trip today to Reno, Nev., where he will address a Lincoln day banquet tonight.

The Wisconsin senator fired his first blast Thursday night in a Republican-Lincoln day dinner in Wheeling, W. Va. He waved a paper and said:

"I have here in my hand a list of 205 that were known to the secretary of state as being members of the Communist party, and who nevertheless are still working and shaping the policy in the state department."

Newsman missed the senator as his plane stopped in Milwaukee, but they found him in Denver, where he scoffed at White's denial of his charges. He said he had a complete list of 207 "bad risks" still working in the state department and if Secretary Acheson wanted to call him later in Salt Lake City he'd read the list.

He asserted he intended to "tell the story over and over until the public is so tired of it the administration will have to clean up the mess."

When he reached Salt Lake City he told reporters the terms under which he would give Acheson the names.

He said he'd do it if the secretary telephoned him and if Acheson would show his sincerity having a presidential order revoked, at least insofar as the 57 order prohibits government departments from turning over loyalty records to congressional committees."

"It would be a waste of effort to give Acheson the names, then have him deny they are Communists and we cannot give their records," McCarthy said.

Truman Told Injunction Is Necessary

Washington, Feb. 11 — (P) — President Truman's fact-finders told him today that an immediate injunction is necessary to stop the suspension of coal mining in the "Taft-Hartley" injunction.

The board reported that John Lewis and the coal operators have been "more concerned with winning tactical advantages" than with trying seriously to reach agreement.

It accused the union of failing "even at this late stage" to let the soft coal mine owners know what it wants in wage and working fund increases.

The board, created as the first step in restoring production to 80 days under a Taft-Hartley injunction, also criticized the operators for imposing obstacles to bargaining. It said the operators set up flat demands which would have to be granted before they would consider wage and working fare issues.

Mr. Truman was expected to sign Attorney General McGrath to seek a court order quickly.

But presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters Mr. Truman would have to review the findings before he acts. The report was the last preliminary to court action.

As the Taft-Hartley act, meantime only a formal order from a federal court was lacking in a second legal move in the eight-month-old coal dispute.
